Extraordinary Women Film Series: "Hammering It Out". This spirited documentary spotlights the experience of women in the building trades, specifically those women involved in the Century Freeway Women's Employment Project in Los Angeles. Framed by the story of a community-initiated lawsuit that resulted in hundreds of women getting trained to work on a billion-dollar freeway project, the film evolves into a primer on the feminist issues of equality, identity, and changing gender roles. The film demonstrates the importance of providing opportunity, embracing equity, and abandoning sexist traditions which deny talented women workers the right to support their families on a par equal with men. The 2000 film was directed and produced by Vivian Price, and runs 54 minutes. Made possible by the Friends of NRPL and in partnership with the local New Rochelle chapter of Zonta International. Free.

6:30 PM – 7:50 PM, New Rochelle Public Library, 1 Library Plaza, New Rochelle, NY, 10801

Extraordinary Women Film Series: "Step by Step: Building a Feminist Movement, 1941-1977". In the Ossie Davis Theater Proving beyond a doubt that feminism began well before the 1960s, and that its players were not just the white middle class, this inspiring film follows the lives of eight Midwestern women, six of whom became founders of NOW. Set against a backdrop of decades of war, prosperity and reform, their stories beautifully illustrate the continuity and diversity of 20th-century feminism, as the participants describe the labor, civil rights, and political movements of the '40s and '50s that led them to take independent action for women. Using well-chosen archival footage, stills, music, and primary-source narration, producer Joyce Follet of the University of Wisconsin and consulting producer Terry Rockefeller offer a first-rate, panoramic-yet-personal view of the women on feminism's front lines. The 1998 film runs 56 minutes. Made possible by the Friends of NRPL and in partnership with the local New Rochelle chapter of Zonta International. Free.

Documentary Film: "Dare To Be". Dare to Be is a documentary film not only on the sport of rowing, but also the human spirit. It follows a series of rowers ranging from novice girls to women training for the Olympics, as they overcome obstacles and seek greatness. We learn along their journey that greatness can come in many forms and should not always be measured by traditional concepts of success, but rather by individual triumphs. The film's director, Adam Reist, will speak about the making of the documentary following the viewing, which will run 91 minutes. Free. Made possible by the Friends of NRPL.
